You’ve started repaying your student loan

Dear Mr Marchbank,

Our records from the tax authority show that deductions towards your Plan 2 student loan have started coming through your employer’s payroll. Nothing is wrong — this letter simply explains how the deductions work and confirms what we have received so far.

How Plan 2 repayments work

You repay 9% of your income above the repayment threshold, which is currently £28,470 a year (£2,372 a month). Your employer works out the deduction each payday and shows it on your payslip; it changes automatically if your pay changes, and stops in any month you earn below the threshold. Repayments depend on your income, not on the size of your loan balance.

Payments we’ve received so far

Month	Amount received
September 2025	£54.00
October 2025	£54.00
November 2025	£54.00
December 2025	£54.00
January 2026	£54.00
Total received	£270.00

Employer deductions reach us after the end of each tax year, so the most recent payslip deductions may not appear above yet. If a deduction on your payslip looks wrong, speak to your employer’s payroll team first.

If you expect your income to stay over the threshold you don’t need to do anything. You can also make voluntary repayments at any time at sfagency.example/account — these reduce your balance directly and there is no charge for repaying early. Any balance remaining 30 years after you first became liable to repay is written off.

Yours sincerely,
