A full course plus booster is shown above. If any entry looks wrong — for example a missing dose or an incorrect date — contact the vaccination centre that administered the dose, or ask your general practice to raise a correction against the national immunisation register.

Your data. This record is drawn from the national immunisation register, which is maintained to support individual care and public health monitoring. Details of how vaccination data is used and your rights over it are published in the register's privacy notice.

Checking validity. Organisations verifying this document should check the bearer's name and date of birth against photographic identification. This printed record does not expire, but verifiers may require a record issued within a recent period.
